

Exploring potential routes away from treatment-resistant depression

Introducing the COMP 005 Study

Learn more about a study looking at a new investigational treatment approach for treatment-resistant depression using an investigational medicine alongside psychological support.

You may be able to join the study if you:

- Are 18 years of age or older
- Have been diagnosed with major depression and have not responded to antidepressants

Other criteria will need to be met to confirm your eligibility for this study, which will last up to 62 weeks.

Study participants receive investigational treatment and follow-up care at no cost. Travel and study-related costs may be reimbursed.

You can find out more by talking to your local study center or visiting www.compasspathfinderstudies.com.
